

<alex_cordonnier>

cordonn2@illinois.edu • (937) 564-0234 • alexcordonnier.com

<education>

Bachelor of Science in CS, University of Illinois at Urbana- Champaign

Graduation: May 2017 — GPA: 3.58 of 4.00
James Scholar Honors Program: Fall '13 to present, Dean's List: Spring '14, Fall '14

<skills>

- HTML, CSS, JavaScript, jQuery — advanced
- C, C++ — intermediate
- Java — intermediate
- Git, SVN, TFS — intermediate
- VB.NET, VBA — basic

<experience>

Jan 2015 – present: Undergraduate TA at University of Illinois

- Taught three lab sections of Computer Architecture
- Helped develop Spimbot competition's I/O interface

May 2015 – Aug 2015: Software Engineering Intern at Apple

- Ported a software DMA coprocessor to run on an off-the-shelf RTOS instead of its original firmware

Sep 2014 – Jan 2015: Web Development Intern at Midmark

- Developed new HTML5 design tool web app for Medical division

May 2014 – Aug 2014: Software Engineering Co-op at Midmark

- Developed initialization & hardware interface code for a new PCB
- Wrote unit tests and test protocols to verify new software releases

May 2013 – May 2014: E-Marketing Intern at Midmark

- Remade 3 Flash-based web apps in HTML5, including deep mobile integration
- Developed brand new HTML5 web app for Dental division

<projects>

DMX-84: programming theater lights from a calculator (C++, Arduino)

- Built device to enable graphing calculators to program and run theater & DJ lights
- Featured on hackaday.com on Aug 3, 2014

Launchpage: a home screen for Google Chrome (HTML, JS, CSS)

- Developed Google Chrome extension that replaces new tab page with a home screen
- Key features: very fast, customizable backgrounds, adaptive color scheme algorithm
- Featured on makeuseof.com on Sep 11, 2013